

Morning Message from Miss Beckett

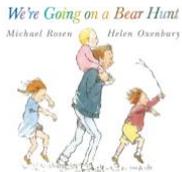

Good Morning Nursery

Welcome to what is going to be the last day of home learning activities for the Nursery class. Some of you will be looking forward to returning to school next week, while others will be staying at home with your families. For those children choosing to stay at home, there are links on page 2, to various websites you may wish to use to further support your home learning.

Remember, you have all worked very hard since you have been off school, and I am so proud of you. Sing and dance along to this song to remind yourselves how wonderful you all are.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=i3n2VCqh01A>

Literacy

Today we are celebrating World Book Day, so we are going to focus on one of my favourite books.

Do you remember reading the book We're Going on a Bear Hunt in Nursery?

You always like to join in with the story and love to do the actions each time we read it in Nursery.

The book was written by a man called Michael Rosen. Michael Rosen is the author of the book.

Click on the link below, and you will see and hear Michael Rosen reading and performing the story.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=OgyI6ykDwds>

Mathematics

Can you remember the different things or places the family had to go through in the bear hunt story?

The cave was the 6th thing they had to go through. Can you remember the other 5 things in the correct order?

Create or draw in the correct order, the 6 things that the family had to go through on their bear hunt.

When the family got to the cave, they saw a bear with

One shiny wet nose!

Two big furry ears!

Two big goggly eyes.

Can you draw a bear with those features? How many paws will your bear have?

I can't wait to see the pictures of your bears.

Other Activities

I would like to say a huge thank you to all children and families who have engaged in the home learning activities since lockdown. I have seen from your Seesaw posts and heard from our telephone calls, how hard you have worked, and I have also been amazed by the range of fun, creative activities you have undertaken since school has been closed. I have seen children who have made tremendous progress with their reading, letter formation, phonics skills and number work and you should all be so proud of your Achievements and of your Effort.

Children, you wouldn't have managed all of this without the Support of the adults and siblings in your families who have helped you through lockdown, so please join me in giving them your loudest ever Roller Coaster cheer!

Here are some useful websites that you may wish to use to further support your home learning.

www.thenational.academy

Login to the classroom section of this website where you can access a series of lessons in a range of subjects for children from the EYFS to Year10.

The EYFS lessons tend to be aimed at Reception, however many Nursery children will be able to access these and will enjoy them.

www.classroomsecrets.co.uk

This website provides weekly home learning packs for children and is free to join.

The Department of Education's Hungry Little Minds campaign features tips and practical activities that parents can do at home with children to support their early learning.

<https://hungrylittleminds.campaign.gov.uk>

The Tiny Happy People section of the BBC website

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/tiny-happy-people>

has ideas and activities to develop your child's communication skills.

The National Literacy Trust's Family Zone is full of free activities and ideas to keep your child busy at home, whilst also benefiting their reading, writing and language development.

<https://literacytrust.org.uk/family-zone/>

www.twinkl.co.uk

Twinkl provides a range of downloadable activity sheets and other resources covering all areas of the curriculum

<http://oxfordowl.co.uk>

This website contains hundreds of e-books and other reading activities.

